

COME ALL UNTO THE TEMPLE

Text by Toni Thomas

Come all unto the temple
Where holiness abides;
Where hands are consecrated
And hearts are purified.
Through covenants of power,
Our imperfections yield;
The mystery of godliness
In temples is revealed.

Come all unto the temple
Where perfect love abounds;
Where hearts are turned together,
One sweet and solemn sound.
As family forever,
Together we are sealed,
The mystery of godliness
In temples is revealed.

Come all unto the temple
Where peace unmeasured flows;
From wells of living water
Drink solace to your soul.
As heavy hearts unburden,
As broken hopes are healed,
The mystery of godliness
In temples is revealed.

Come all unto the temple
Where endless truth is found
In perfect course, unwav'ring,
Of one eternal round.
As we're endowed with knowledge,
There from the world concealed,
The mystery of godliness
In temples is revealed.
