“The reality of the Resurrection of the Savior overwhelms our heartbreak with hope because with it comes the assurance that all the other promises of the gospel are just as real—promises that are no less miraculous than the Resurrection. We know that He has the power to cleanse us from all our sins. We know that He has taken upon Himself all our infirmities, pains, and the injustices we have suffered [see Alma 7:11–12]. We know that He has ‘rise[n] from the dead, with healing in his wings’ [2 Nephi 25:13]. We know that He can make us whole no matter what is broken in us. We know that He ‘shall wipe away all tears from [our] eyes; and there shall be no more death, neither sorrow, nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain’ [Revelation 21:4]. We know that we can be ‘made perfect through Jesus . . . , who wrought out this perfect atonement’ [D&C 76:69], if we will just have faith and follow Him.”

Elder Paul V. Johnson of the Seventy, April 2016 general conference

“Love is making space in your life for someone else. . . .

“Mothers literally make room in their bodies to nurture an unborn baby—and hopefully a place in their hearts as they raise them—but nurturing is not limited to bearing children. Eve was called a ‘mother’ before she had children [see Genesis 3:20]. I believe that ‘to mother’ means ‘to give life.’ Think of the many ways you give life. It could mean giving emotional life to the hopeless or spiritual life to the doubter. With the help of the Holy Ghost, we can create an emotionally healing place for the discriminated against, the rejected, and the stranger. In these tender yet powerful ways, we build the kingdom of God. Sisters, all of us came to earth with these life-giving, nurturing, maternal gifts because that is God’s plan.”

Neill F. Marriott, second counselor in the Young Women general presidency, April 2016 general conference
