

The room would be bland without you. Enjoy visiting with friends between songs, and make those walls shine.

You'll enjoy the decorations more than anyone else in the room! Attend, and bask in the fruits of your profession.

'Legendary'? 'Epic'? It's possible you've been reading too many fantasy novels lately. Go to the dance for a change of pace and to teach dance moves to your friends.

Clear some space on the living room floor and hone your dancing skills for now. After your 14th birthday, the world will never be the same.

your dancing skill level?

Excellent! There's no risk of bodily harm. Attend.

How lucky are you?! What a view! Attend, and dance within a protective circle of your more coordinated friends.

Will the next Church dance be held on top of a mountain?

Nothing cures dancing insecurity faster than having your toes stepped on. Attend, and boost the selfconfidence of your dance partners all night long.

You clearly have the talent to become an international superspy some day. Attend, and further sharpen your skills at blending in.

I do alright. I mostly just blend in. My moves are legendary, heroic, and epic!

BROTHER JONES CAN NEVER RESIST PLAYING HIS FAVORITE SONG FROM HIGH SCHOOL AT LEAST ONCE DURING EVERY STAKE DANCE.

A Question of Ownership

WHAT BELONGS TO YOU BUT IS USED MORE OFTEN BY OTHERS?

To solve, first unscramble the mixed-up letters and write them in the spaces beneath each word. Copy all the letters inside circles and triangles to the bottom, then unscramble each set to find the answer.

Unscramble here:

It must be a joint activity at Mutual tonight. He certainly wouldn't be brushing his teeth
like that to go to Scouts!

Well, I don't really know how to do that.

Let me put you on

with my I.T. manager!

Solve before Sampling

Your sneaky math teacher brought treats for the whole class on Valentine's Day ... but with a catch! You first must answer the riddle before delving into the sugary goodness.

Answers on page 44.