

Blessings

I was staring at the ceiling
Looking for that feeling
The one that brings the light back to your eyes
The way that I was living
Meant something must be missing
When all I had to do was change my mind
But now I'm down on my knees every night

Chorus:

Counting all my blessings
Listing out the good things
Cause I know
That sometimes I forget
Drowning out the heartache
Leaving all the mistakes
That I've made, and telling them goodbye
Remembering all the things that are going right
Counting all my blessings

Now I don't have to wonder
When the current drags me under
Whether I will make it out alive
I think about His goodness
And it brings me to the surface
And I have the strength to swim to safer tides
And I find the answers I've been trying to find
